

INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF ENDOCRINOLOGY

MEMBERSHIP APPLICATION FORM

The ISE welcomes new members. Becoming part of our network of National Endocrine Societies, your society benefits from many strategic opportunities, including:

- Nomination and voting rights for the election of ISE leadership
- Development of your international strategy through cross-collaboration with other Member Societies
- International Endorsement/Support of local events, activities or products
- Access to promote content to our new global online education hub
- Networking and promotional opportunities to share the important work and activities of your society to a global community

In addition, your members, of whom we represent over 40,000 individual endocrinologists worldwide, benefit from being part of a wider international community, through eligibility for:

- Program Organising Committees of International meetings
- Travel Fellowship Support Grants - for your early career endocrinologists
- Regional/National speaker opportunities - for your leading experts
- Discounted International Congress of Endocrinology registration fees

Apply for your society to become an official member of the International Society of Endocrinology by filling out this form and returning to office@isendo.org

All applications will be collectively assessed at the Annual Executive Committee meeting held in March and we will notify new societies of their membership details and fees thereafter.
